

Aja Johnson earned her Master's of Education in Higher Educational Leadership from Oakland University. She currently works at Humboldt State University as a Residence Life Coordinator. Her background includes working in the LGBTQ Resource Center, Student Engagement Coordinator, and working in the Career Advising Center at her previous institutions.

Aja has presented and trained student leaders on social justice issues, social justice programming and various other topics. She has presented at national conferences on creating spaces for Black womxn at PWIs using online communities as well as using your identity to have difficult conversations.

Tina Okoye earned her Masters in Sociology with an emphasis in Health and Women of Color. She currently also works at Humboldt State University as a Residence Life Coordinator. Her background includes being the equity advocate, serving on the chief advisory council to help the University police department better serve the student population and, being the coordinator for the African American Center for Academic Excellence. Tina is passionate about creating and developing resources to support minority students of color. Her passion for social justice is what keeps her continuing to advocate for marginalized folks.

THE DISCUSSION:

SOCIAL JUSTICE & SOCIAL WORK

USING YOUR BACKGROUND TO DO ADVOCACY WORK